

Analyst

verifiable functional analysis

Automation

Documented function check before receiving and handing over mobile devices. You increase the re- and your mobile devices, save time and save yourself discussions with your customers about allegedly damaged goods. Each analyst license can be used as often as you like for the same mobile device for 30 days. Test and document instead of puzzling and arguing!

Transparency & Image

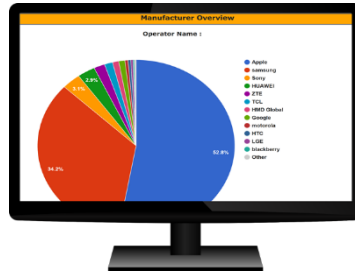

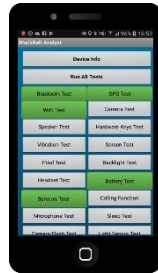

Your customers will thank you! Professional software not only facilitates your business processes, it also strengthens your customers' trust in your company and sets you apart from your competitors!

Usability & Individuality

Analyst offers you both! A modern and clear user interface in your personal (by the way free) cloud account with standard test routines and quick checks, but also extensive customization options to adapt all processes perfectly to your company requirements!

Frontoffice & Backoffice

Analyst is your all-purpose weapon and you won't want to miss this software in front of or behind the business stage in the future. Make it easier for yourself, your employees, your suppliers and your customers!

With Analyst, you can quickly, efficiently and automatically check the functionality of your mobile devices and have access to all device specifications relevant to you. You not only save money, time and manpower: Analyst enables you to establish a complete work flow for the administration and documentation of all your customer and employee devices - including modern cloud connection, integration of your company logo on all certificates, label printing function, statistics and export functions for your merchandise management system!
